

My name is Ciaran Donnelly, more commonly known as Chillie, and I am running for student president for the next academic year. The main reason I am running for president is because I have a huge love for this college and everyone in it, I am passionate about the university and would love to share this passion with the student body. I have been largely involved in working with the college for the last four years with the access programme and have great experience in dealing with the academic support and welfare of student's across each year.

If I get elected I will prioritise the wants and needs of the UL students, I will ensure to act on any problems that we are facing and represent the voices of all students in the college. I am a very outgoing and strong willed person and I will promise to go out of my way to ensure every voice is heard and represented equally.

I am aiming to work extremely hard to enhance the atmosphere around the university and improve the social aspect of the college with weekly events that will bring all of the student body together. Most of us have missed out on a lot of social activity during the pandemic and I plan on making up for that loss in the coming year.

I will work closely with my fellow officers and focus a large amount of my time on establishing free academic support for students through all modules of interest. I will also negotiate with relevant personnel about organising better student deals in certain student facilities such as the sports arena and other eateries across the campus.

I am committed, determined and excited to get the chance to improve the experience of each and every member of the university. I will bring back the golden days.
